Chance Discoveries by

Favorites of Fortune Every one has heard of Carrara marble. In 1929 a party of English tourists exploring the mountains of Carrara found a dirty block of marble which had evidently fallen from a cliff overhead. One of the visitors, who had some knowledge of geology, noticed that this stone had a pink that that was unusual. The sample was taken to England, where it was found to be a new variety. A quarry was opened and proved profitable. Two women, Mrs. Wilson and Miss Spen cer, were crossing the Molave desert in southern California, looking for gold. They were not successful, and one night, feeling discouraged, campal on the bank of a small creek and Ili a fice to cook their supper. The fire began to throw out dark, ill-smelling smoke, so that it was impossible to go near it or cook on it, and the poor, tired women were forced to collect more fuel and light a fresh fire. In the middle of the night Mrs. Wilson sprang up suddenly. "I know what it is!" she cried. "What on earth are you talking about?" demanded the other woman, "Asphalt," was the answer; and she was right. That find proved much more valuable than a gold mine, for a thick deposit of asphalt covered acres and made the fortune of many others besides its discoverers.

By JANE OSBORN **********

T THE house party at the Codors A Trip nouse party at the while away a few dull hours before the arrival of the men on Saturday after noon by writing what they called "passports to their hearts." When Kate read from the passport she had written "height, very tall; nationality. Scotch descent; eyes, gray," she as good as admitted her preference to Donald McGuire, though she insisted that the tallying of Donald to what she had written was just a coinci dence-a verf remarkable coincidence. as she really had never given Donald a serious thought in her life.

Maud Grayson had a perfectly clear idea of the traits and features of the one who should hold the passport to her heart, though they certainly did mot tally with any of the men who were coming to the house party. They did not tally, in fact, with anyone that Maud had ever known. The girls listened engerly as she read, hoping that 4t might disclose some preference for Tom or Bill or Larry-or even for Donald. These were her specifications: "Height, six feet; build, slender but strong; hair, heavy and dark; eyes. alght brown; nose, straight; mouth. straight and defiant; profession, lawyer or architect, certainly not a busi mess man; hobbles-books, tennis, fast cars or yachts."

The next week Mand went to visit friends in the mountains and it was not until another week had passed that she saw the girls of her set again. This was at Kate's party, the special excuse of the party being that Kate was going to announce her engagement to Donald McGuire. Kate never knew it but one of the girls had whispered to Donald that Kate admired men of Scotch descent and that she liked gray eyes.

Before the men arrived from the city the girls again got out their passports. They had agreed to bring them. Maud brought hers forth from her bag with some confusion.

"I think I've changed my mind a alttle," she sald, and scratched off "slx feet," inserting "five feet eight." Then in place of "build, slender but strong," she wrote, "bulld, very strong a little heavy." But for bair "heavy and dark" she substituted "light brown and not too heavy-maybe Just a little buld." Eyes changed from "light brown" to "gray," the nose became short and broad and the straight definit mouth became "big and pug nacious." What was written concern ing the chosen profession she crossed off and the hobbles turned from "books, fast cars and yachts" to "fast orses and raising mushrooms

"I think he sounds perfectly horcid," said Kate who read the changes. "It's silly the way you just make it up as you go along. I think the person you have described would be coarse and common.

"Maybe he would be a little coarse in a olce sort of way-but that's better than being too refined. Being a little course makes you strong and domineering and downright."

Then the men arrived and while they were sitting on the broad terrace at the side of the house drinking cooling summer beverages Kate made a quick departure toward the driveway. A rather thick-set young man was dismounting from a sleek, black horse, which he left standing beneath a tree while Kate led him forward to the group of guests.

"This is my cousin, Tom Wales," Rate unnounced, "Tom, here is the crowd. Find out their names for yourself-it's so thresome to introduce you all round. I never could get Tom to come to one of our parties before-

Kate stopped short, so surprised was she to see her cousin standing there at Maud's side apparently most delighted to be with her. Why, Cousto Tom, that's why you asked to come. Kate accused, "You'd met Maud and couldn't be happy antil you had seen

Meantime Mand stood tooking more than a little confused, hoping against hope that the girls had not paid too close attention to her revised pass port. Kate broke the short pause.

"Tom, are you interested to mush foom growing?" she naked, shaking a finger at him. Then two cousinly arms were laid on lds shoulders and Kate looked intently into his face. "Yes, your mouth is big and pugpacious and, bless my heart, you're getting a little baid." Mand blushed furlously and darted forth to put slender fingers on Kata's Ups, "Please don't," she begged " never dreamed that Tom was vade coustn-and I aldn't think cell ever see each other acain. I jost wet him when I was away last week-" That evening Tom found time to talk to his consid for a few minutes. "I think i we follow in love with Mand." tic ammunical. "But it is quite hope tess tant week she let me read a description of the sort of man she'd admire. He was everything that I am

"She's changed her mind," Kate toformed him, "She's revised the fist until it this you exactly. Of course didn't think of you when she read lt-and it didn't sound it ble attrac dire." But Kate addressed the last words to the thin air, for her cousin Tops and test her to look for Mand.

Ancient Mayan Carvings

Throw Light on History At Quirigua, in the republic of Guatemala, there exists a number of most interesting ruins, apparently, the remains of temples and other public buildings. There are many individual monoliths, erected as monuments of different sorts, sculptured with human faces and figures, and animal designs. as well as hieroglyphics, which archeologists have not as yet been able to decipher accurately. One such stone bears a date in Mayan chronology which has been computed to coincide with 535 A. D. of the Gregorian calendur. The carving of this monolith, which is the largest of the surviving remnants, is still clear and perfect despite the long procession of centuries that has passed over it. Inscriptions and representations on this and other stones tend to the belief that Indian corn was first cultivated in Guatemala. The corn-cakes of the Mayan Indians were probably the first attempts to cook corn, or maize, and these cakes are still today the staple of the Guatemalan and Mexican diet,

Eagle Undisputed King

of Feathered Creatures In all ages and among many nations the eagle has been considered the king of birds. In ancient mythology he was held sacred to Jove, who had dominion over the seasons and held in his grasp the lightning. In early historic times many nations paid it special reverence, and the Romans, following the earlier example of the Persians or Assyrians, made it their ensign. More modern countries-France, Prussia, Italy, Mexico-have chosen its figure to adorn their standards. It was natural, therefore, that America should adopt its own fine species as its emblem, Since 1782, when it was formally chosen, the engle has been selected to appear on the official flags of Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Michigan, New York, North Dakota, Oregon and Utah, His image also figures on various fings, standards and seals of the United States, of the army and navy, and of the President and his cabinet, and on several of our coins,-Nature Magazine.

Unconscious Helpers

A minister in Scotland recently related that once, somewhat tired, he was slowly climbing a steep bill, when all at once he heard a boy practicing on his kettledrum. He was playing a march, and, almost unconsciously, the weary climber quickened his pace, and kept in time with the rat-tat-tat of the drum. He was helped by the boy, yet the boy knew nothing of it. That thought, said the speaker, greatly encouraged him; for often, like the prophet, workers get discouraged, and think they have inbored in vain, whereas it may be that their example and efforts have, unknown to them, helped many a struggling brother and sister along the path of truth and right.—Exchange.

Explained in Full "Well, Martin," said the country squire to his ex-footman, who had left a year before to join the navy and had returned on leave, "how do you like your new life?" "Fine, sir," replied the sallor. "That's good," said the man's prelous master. "Yes, sir, it's a grand life. Once upon a time I didn't think much of the sea, though," the sallor explained, "but now I see that the water's the finest thing in the world. For instance, if there was no water in the world not one of us would learn to swim, and then look what a lot of people would be drowned."-London Tit-Blis.

Knew the Procedure To illustrate his contention that peoole can get used to anything—even his lectures-John B. Gough, the oldtime temperance leader who made "Ten Nights in a Rar Room" popular with our grandfathers, used to tell this story: A man in New Hampshire had be come so used to the marriage ceremony that on the occasion of his marrying his fourth wife, when the minister requested the couple to stand up, the man said:

THE VALUE OF SOUND DESIGN

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy

THE good performance of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance. Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold. aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically halanced crankshuft and flywheel, the simplicity of the electrical, cooling, Inbrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.

Southern Cross Makes Westward Flight Across the Atlantic Ocean.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD ONCE again the Atlantic has been conquered by avlators, and this time it was the westward passage, made successfully but once before, that was negotiated. Maj. Charles Ringsford-Smith of Australia and three companions flew the famous plane Southern Cross from Port Marsnock, Ireland, near Hubble, and made a safe landing at Harbor Grace, New foundland. Their intended destination was New York, but when they neared the Newfoutelland coast they exan into dense for and for six hours new blind, losing their course and wandering aimleasty Meanwhile their fuel was running ton and their predicament second serious. However, their radio was efficient and the opserator, John W. Stannage, kept in constant communication with ships and shore stations. A relief plane was about to take off from Harbor Grace when the Southeen Cross came in out of the fog and dropped gracefully to

While Kingsford Snith Stannage and their companional Evert Van Dyk and Capt. J. Patrick Saut, exsted after | the two thousand mile flight the plane was refueled, and next ubraing at daylight the trip to New York was resumed. Major Kingsford Smith said they would by later to San Franerisco, completing a round the world flight for him and the plane.

New York city gave the gallant avientors lis customary reception, with spageant, parade, tunckrous and dintwin. The pilot brought across a letter afrom President Cosgrave of the Irish Pree State to President Hoover, which · he planned to deliver in person at the White House,

The directors and executives of the National Air races sent Major Kings. ford Smith a telegram of warm congratulation and invited him to remain exect in Chicago or to return from the Pacific coast to be their guest during the races which begin August 25,

Col. ROBERTO FIERRO, now Mexflight from New York to Mexico ('ity in 16 hours and 35 minutes, a new record and ten hours less than the time taken by Colenel Lindbergh for the trip from Washington to Mexico d'ily lant Imeraine.

YET another most applelous event la avlation virtles, so to speak, was the birth of a fine son to talenet and Mrs. Lindhergh at Biglowand, N. J. The glad next was given all the world immediately by neverther halleting and radio broadcasts, and constatulatory messages poured In on the happy parents. The colodel was characterfallfally refleent, but Ambassador Morrow proclaimed blueself the barplest grandfather in the world. In filling out the birth conflicate Mrs. Abdbergh designated herself as a professional fleer and gave her home as St. Louis, Ma.

Hear Admiral fixed and Polonel Condicach met in a New York holel eend or hanged congentulations. Byrd executated the birth of Lindbergh's san and the colonels high attitude count to count flight. Lindbergh spoke glowlusty of the neelat telp to the Routh pole. He left his constabilitions for dieent finishers the plant of Hyrda plane on the polar dash.

DRESIDENT HOUVER had work was compilled by his honest conexictions to veto another penalen bill, and this thee the veto was upheld by the house of representation. The measure was the World was referans till originating in the house and massed by the arnate despite Mr. Moover's varidus that he would not . The it inly six southers voted end the fall, which the President earl was "had legislation," against the hest inferreds of the teterans themselves and placing "an unjustified load upon the taxpayers at a time every effort should be made to lighten it."

As soon as the senate had acted, the Republicans of the house held a caucus and enough votes were pledged to sustain the veto. To facilitate action the house accepted the senate amendments and the measure was sent to Mr. Hoover, Then, immediately after his velo message was received the vote sustaining it was taken. A substitute bill was then rushed through the house, with the prospect of definite action on it by the senate within a few days. The new measure embodies the pension system. Its initial annual cost to the government will be $50,-000,000, which will increase to $80,-000,000 in three years. It will apply to probably 200,000 veterans (in addition to 245,000 now receiving compensation) whose pensions will range from $12 to $40 n month, depending upon the degree of disability. The vetoed bill, according to Director Illnes of the veterans' bureau, would have cost $102,000,000 the first year and ultimately would have added $225. 1000,000 annually to the present expenditures for veterans.

BY A vote of 10 to 4 the senate for eign relations committee reported the London naval treaty to the senate for approval. Neither Chairman Bor. h nor the warmest advocates of the pact on the committee submitted any written report explaining and commending it. The four who refused to recommend its railfention were Johnson of California, Moses of New Hampshire, oldingon of Indiana Minnesotn.

President Hoover remained stendfast in his intention of calling an immediate special session of the senate to act on the trenty, although twenty. four senators signed a round robin petition asking him to abandon this plan and allow consideration of the part to be postponed until after the November elections. The protesting solons declared they were worn out with their public duties, the senate having been in almost continuous sesslon since December, 1928, and that many of them had been compelled to neglect their private affairs.

Administration leaders are confident the treaty will be ratified eventnally, but admit the controverse will he long and bitter. The opposition has prepared proposed reservations which would include the following declarations;

That the treaty involves no permanent surrender of the previously claimed right of the United States to build an it pleases,

That under the so-called "escape clause" America can build whatever type of adip it desires in the event of England or Japan bullding beyond the treaty limits because of the constructhan programs of nations not signatory to the fact

That under the replacement clauses con erolsers with ships of that

DRESHIERT HOOVER'S tacation tour, plans for which already include tisits to some of the cational parks in the Wrat, may also take him down to Mexico in August. Both the Mexican government and Amugsandor Morrow have invited him, and after a conference in the White House Mr. Morrow raid:

'I strougly urged President Hoover to that Mexico while I am there and I fallow that he will do so, He plans to make a trip during August which will bring him to the Mexican border, and I helleve that It would go a long way to rement our good relations if he would visit that country. I know that he wishes to do so and has only prospered his visit because of the price of business,"

ROTARY International celebrated its silver jubilee last week in Chiengo, the city of its birth. Members to the number of some 18,000 assembled from all parts of the world, with their families, and the doings included not only banquets and other festal events but also sessions in which the problems of the trades and professions were seriously discussed and many social questions were debuted.

THESTER H. GRAY, Washington representative of the Furm Bureau federation, has given out an analysis purporting to show that agriculture benefits much more from the new tariff of this order to be published three law than does industry, Dutles on raw agricultural products have been increased on an average by 51.0 per cent over the rates of the 1022 law, tabulations made by Mr. Gray indicate. The industrial rate increases have averaged 14.0 per cent, the agricultural increases being more than three times as much as indestrial increases.

actly as it was passed by the senate, ton, the executrix therein named, it was sent to the President for his approval. It is estimated that the bill authorizes the expenditure of more than $135,000,000 on projects which if completed will cost in excess of $300,-000,000. Actual expenditures must be made from the lump sum annual appropriation of $55,000,000 at the dis- 12p posal of the army engineers.

Bettington was in his room. "Mrs. Radway wants you. Everything has turned out as I wished. She will warn you not to be violent to me; she thinks you are her only friend. It will not be difficult; already she believes in you. You have no prejudices to overcome."

"She'll pay?" Bettington thought it would seem odd if he made no comment on a decision which meant a great deal of money to him. He started on his career of deception by smiling at the man he would gladly

"It was Mary Cowin who really decided her. I played those two trump cards. Sam and Metzger. Metzger was watching her like a hawk all through the burial service, and she noticed him, Metzger has been less fortunate than I; he cannot conceal his emotions. I shall seem to avoid you, but will come to your room when dinner is over."

Never had Bettington experienced the sense of shame so keenly as when he left Clements and entered the library. Evelyn Radway was walking up and down. She crossed quickly to him as he entered and looked into his eyes without speaking. Then with a little sudden, spontaneous gesture she put out her hands to him.

"I believe you are really my friend," she sald.

"No one lives who is more anxious to help you," he answered. Was not this the moment, he wondered, to risk all and tell her of his knowledge of the plot? Then, suddenly, he called to mind how Clements had used a dictagraph to trap those whom he suspected. Clements might be listen-

He could see that she had made playing false with him. Although Bet. Ungton felt for Clements an intense loathing he believed that, while the crew was under his orders, the women would be safe. There would be money and feminine consolation at the end of the voyage. At most four days would take their back into New York

As Bettington went to his own quarters he saw that Hallett was having his dunnage moved into the large rooms formerly occupied by Clements. The steward was not to be seen. The captain looked at the ship's doctor with a sneer

"I guess you'll miss your friend." What personal grudge, Bettington wondered, did this bellicose mariner bear against him? He had always liked sullors and been liked by them Hellett was a new type to him, he supposed. Then he remembered his instructions to enlist the captain's sympathies. 'I may have a more congental neighbor in you," he said pleasantly. "Congenial? Me? H-l, no!" Halight flared "I'm commander here and I'll have those under me keep their places."

"Admiral le," Bettington returned see no objection to that; but I am net under you, Captain. My duties not conflet with yours, nor am I are to aid in working the ship." Hallett grunted in reply. There is no waswer to this.
